

This Privacy Statement was last updated on 26 Feb 2020

GCP UK Ltd values your trust in us and respects the need to maintain the security and confidentiality of information that you provide to us, whether or not you are a GCP client, a registered user or a visitor to our website. By submitting or providing your personal data, you consent to the use of your personal data collected by GCP and all persons involved in the provision of services, recruitment and communicating with you, in the manner as set out in this Privacy Statement.

GCP shall have the right to modify, update or amend the terms of this Privacy Statement at any time by placing the updated Privacy Statement on the website without prior notice. By continuing to communicate with GCP or by continuing to use GCP services following the modifications, updates or amendments to this Privacy Statement shall signify your acceptance of such modifications, updates or amendments.

If you have questions on privacy issues, please email us at info@thegcpgroup.com

We only collect personally identifiable information that is specifically and voluntarily provided by you. We receive various types of private and personal data in the course of your communicating with GCP or by continuing to use GCP's services, including but not limited to the following ("Personal Data"):

- Name, address, national registration identity card, title, company address, email address, telephone and fax numbers; and
- Any information which may identify you, your spouse or family members

In addition to the Personal Data you provide to GCP directly, GCP may also collect your Personal Data from a variety of sources, including without limitation at any meetings, events, conferences, seminars, social media channels, or talks organized or sponsored or attended by PwC and/or from the cookies used on the website (kindly refer to the "Cookies" section).

From time to time, you may also voluntarily provide GCP with unsolicited personal information – that is, information other than that which GCP has requested (for example, through the GCP websites). If you do wish to provide such information for any reason, you consent to GCP using that information in the ways described in this Privacy Statement or as described at the point where you choose to disclose this information. Further, when providing such unsolicited information, we ask that you do not provide any sensitive information.

Building trust for today and tomorrow

Trust has never been more important. It's the link that connects your organisation, people & community, customers, your stakeholders and the world. We know that trust isn't something we buy off the shelf. It's something we earn through every interaction, every experience and every relationship.
